Capricorn (DEC. 22-JAN. 19)

Persons can be swayed to your way of thinking if you use a friendly, logical approach on them. Conversely, if you try to force your thinking on others, you're not likely to make any headway.

Aquarius (JAN. 20-FEB. 19)

Pisces (FEB. 20-MARCH 20)

If you're involved in a payment scheme that involves commission, this could be a good day. It's important, however, that you don't put all your eggs in one basket. Limit your offerings.

There is a very fine line between being assertive and being aggressive. Don't think your associates won't see the difference. Avoid being pushy or arrogant at all costs.

Don't hesitate to offer a helping hand when you see a friend in need of assistance. You'll know how to help out in a manner that doesn't make him or her feel inadequate.

Aries (MARCH 21-APRIL 19)

A new way to make some money that has captured your fancy is worthy of your attention. Check it out thoroughly, in order to appreciate all of the possibilities it offers.

A situation you have been evading isn't likely to be as bad as you've led yourself to believe. If you try to meet it head-on, chances are you'll discover this for yourself.

Aristotle said: "In making a speech, one must study three points: first, the means of producing persuasion; second, the language; third, the proper arrangement of the various parts of the speech."

In bridge there are three parts: first, the bidding; second, counting winners and losers; third, the proper arrangement of the tricks to make the contract.

In this deal, how should South plan the play in four hearts after the defenders begin with three rounds of spades?

In the auction, North's rebid was a double negative, showing a very bad hand, zero to 3 points. (Two notrump is the traditional choice, three clubs the modern one.) On the third round, North had little else he could do other than support hearts.

Under West's spade-king lead, East signals encouragement with his seven. West continues with the spade five, his original fourthhighest. Then East finds the best defense of a third spade. South needs to take five hearts, three diamonds and two clubs.

After ruffing the third spade, if declarer draws trumps, he is safe against a 3-3 break, but not when they are 4-2, which is more likely.

South needs three diamond tricks, and it is a reliable rule to establish declarer's side suit first. So South should play a trump to the dummy, then run the diamond jack.

After West wins, if he plays a fourth spade, declarer ruffs on the board, leads a club to his hand, draws trumps and claims. If West leads something else, South wins, draws trumps and claims.

Miss the boat

About nine months ago, I acquired a 13-inch MacBook Air. At that point, the first Ultrabooks had been announced but were not yet shipping. Even so, I might have waited, except that the Ultrabooks I'd previewed to that point seemed uninspired, with clunkier hardware than the Air offered and various odd compromises. Some missed the boat on the trackpad; others had lower-quality displays. So I bought a 13-inch Mac-Book Air configured with a 256GB solid-state drive. http://translate.chinadaily.com.cn/translate.php?mod=question&actio

My comments:

Daily since 1988.

Good question. A question with context is always a good way to learn.

In the old days, before there were airplanes, people traveled the world by ship, or boat, if you will. And there were probably only one or two boats a month from, say, London to New York. If you miss your boat today, you'll have to wait for another week or month. Hence, you see, missing the boat was a big deal.

By extension, missing the boat also means, figuratively speaking, missing an opportunity.

bought a MacBook Air instead of an Ultrabook. At that time, the Ultrabook wasn't so good, either. For example, some Ultrabooks did not have the trackpad — "missed the
