Mountainous landscape, natural resources make region a paradise for tea

The scenery in the village of Yaoshang, an ancient teahouse village located in the town of Pingxiang in the southern part of Guizhou Province, looks picturesque and beautiful. (Photo/China Daily)

Local villagers have benefited from recent social welfare measures. Li Xin reports.

Local authorities have prioritized poverty alleviation and focused on infrastructure and construction in rural areas by including the improvement of education, healthcare and housing. (Photo/China Daily)

Poverty alleviation boosts economic, social development

The scenery in the village of Yaoshang, an ancient teahouse village located in the town of Pingxiang in the southern part of Guizhou Province, looks picturesque and beautiful. (Photo/China Daily)

Local authorities have prioritized poverty alleviation and focused on infrastructure and construction in rural areas by including the improvement of education, healthcare and housing. (Photo/China Daily)

The scenery in the village of Yaoshang, an ancient teahouse village located in the town of Pingxiang in the southern part of Guizhou Province, looks picturesque and beautiful. (Photo/China Daily)

Local authorities have prioritized poverty alleviation and focused on infrastructure and construction in rural areas by including the improvement of education, healthcare and housing. (Photo/China Daily)