The harmony between man and nature is a principle upheld for thousands of years, and in the modern world, ecological development requires innovation and global cooperation to achieve this balance. Leaders and scholars at a forum that opened on July 27 in Guiyang, capital of Guizhou province, said.

The Eco-Forum Global, Guiyang, with a focus on "Green economy and inclusive growth in a transformational world," aims to promote a deeper understanding of the ecological environment and to encourage cooperation in terms of ecological development.

"Green transformation faces great difficulties so far as all of society can share the fruits of development," said Li Jinhua, vice-chairman of the National Committee of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference, said at the opening ceremony of the Eco-Forum Global in Guiyang, capital of Guizhou province, on Friday. The theme of the ongoing event is "Green economy and inclusive growth in a transformational world.

A short walk away from Guiyang's newly built Jinyang New Area is the natural park of the same name, a popular site for picnics and outdoor activities. The park is located along the banks of the Baoshan River.

The area has good high schools and primary schools, said Che. He said his company sees great investment potential in Guiyang's transformation towards environmentally friendly development.

"It is a project that is in line with our company's strategic goals of the next 40 years, and their development must be carried out on a sustainable basis, "he said.

The Chinese Communist Party, under the leadership of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference, has been committed to the public quality of life, balanced development and environmental protection.
