

Editor's note: The G20 Leaders' Summit will be held in Hangzhou, Zhejiang province, in September. China Daily is proud to announce that it has been designated the official newspaper for the event, the first time the summit will be held in China. In the run-up, China Daily will publish a special section each month highlighting the issues to be tackled at the summit as well as give our readers a glimpse of the host city. The summit, from Sept 4-5, will be extensively covered by China Daily with special packages looking at all aspects of the event as world leaders address the major challenges facing the global economy.
